Dear Ms. Jennings:

In the global economy of today, education is one of the keys to the future for ourselves, our children, and our country. Since 1980, the US has dropped from first in the world in education to 24th. To remain competitive in today's world, we need to strengthen and improve our schools. The Alexandria Schools have many good programs and results, but many students need more encouragement and support.

You have read about the challenge facing T.C. Williams whose average scores for all students on standard tests are low even though it serves well many of its students. We, as a community, need to be deeply concerned. As former Chairs of the Alexandria Public Schools, spanning 40 years in service, we have joined together to sponsor a mentoring program for T.C. Williams 100TCKids. A flyer describing this undertaking and its objective is enclosed.

We would like an opportunity to address your association at its annual meeting or otherwise to solicit interest in this program by other means. Please contact me or Meredith Wade (703-0836-3951 or 100TCKids@gmail.com).

Sincerely,

Carlyle C. Ring, Jr.
